Honoring the Legacy of Rev. Donald James Warren: Empowering Future Generations

Through the visionary leadership of Rev. Donald James Warren, Equipping Ministries International has touched the lives of countless children and women across Africa, including Ghana and Sudan. One of the many initiatives that embody his lasting impact is the free preschool project in Kansanso, Ghana.

Restoring Hope Through Education

Before the establishment of the preschool, Kansanso's public school system had collapsed. It started from Grade 1, leaving children without access to early childhood education. A local survey revealed that many children struggled to adapt to formal schooling without a preschool foundation, eventually abandoning their studies to pursue fishing and farming for a modest income.

Revitalizing Education in the Village

Two years after the passing of Rev. Donald Warren, the work continues under the guidance of his wife, Mrs. Suzy Warren, and the dedicated team at Equipping Ministries International. Thanks to their ongoing efforts, the free preschool program has flourished. Today, over 130 children have successfully transitioned from the preschool to public school, overcoming the educational gap that once hindered their progress. In fact, the first set of students from the program are now in their second year of secondary education.

Revamping Technology for the Future

As the world rapidly moves toward information technology, we are committed to ensuring our students are not left behind. This year, we are launching a technology revamp initiative, starting with 10 new computer units to continue the work Rev. Donald started. Our goal is to expand the number of computers to accommodate more students at a time, improving the quality of teaching and learning through enhanced digital literacy.

Looking to the Future

The success of this preschool program is just one of the many ways Rev. Donald Warren's legacy continues to transform communities in Africa. As we celebrate these milestones, we are reminded of the enduring power of education to break cycles of poverty and empower the next generation to lead better lives.

We invite you to continue supporting this mission and helping more children access the education they deserve.

Wishing you and all your family and loved ones a blessed and wonderful Thanksgiving as you celebrate all the LORD JESUS YESHUA & FATHER GOD have done for you and thank you for being a part of EMI (Equipping Ministries International).

I pray that you are blessed this Thanksgiving Season and through the year as we celebrate and give thanks to LORD JESUS YESHUA & FATHER GOD for all He has done.
